Applicant's amendment dated September 15, 2008, has been fully considered.

First, the Examiner agrees with Applicant's arguments for claims 3-5 and claims 3-5 are allowed.

Regarding claim 1, Applicant argued Beale does not disclose a hollow pipe with a member for minimizing the flow of the working gas between the back-pressure space and the hollow space". The Examiner strongly disagrees because the rejection clearly points out elements 218 is a biasing closed spring that will press plate 217 to a closed position that blocks the communication between the back-pressure space of the power piston (at the bottom of the cylinder); elements 212, 214, 216 controlling the valve in the upper portion of the hollow piston rod and that would cause the minimizing of the fluid flow.

Applicant further argued Beale does not teach a work space located on a displacer piston side and a back-pressure space located on a side of the power piston opposite to the work space. The Examiner once again strongly disagrees. Figure 8 of Beale clearly show the back-pressure chamber at the bottom of the cylinder on the side of the power piston 202. The work space is simply the chamber that communicates with groove and passage 216, 220, these are equivalent with Applicant's work space 7 in figure 7.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 4945726 (Beale).

Beale discloses in figure 8 a Stirling engine comprising a power piston 202, a displacer piston 208, a hollow piston rod 222 with hollow space inside, the cylinder housing 204 comprising a work space located on a displacer piston side and a back-pressure space located opposite to the work space (at the bottom of the cylinder). Elements 217, 218 along with members 214, 216, 212 are used to minimizing the flow between the back-pressure space and the hollow space (the spring 218 is biasly closing the holes between the hollow space and the pressure space).

Claims 3-5 are allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
